CIR Update and Winter Special Offer

Dear Friends and Customers,

Firstly, we wish to thank all of you for your support through the year. Many of you are eagerly awaiting our newsletter and our special Christmas offer. This year, we are very excited to introduce our two new products: the Phi (Golden Section) Personal Harmoniser and the CIR Water-Filled Bracelet. By way of introduction we have included these in our special offer. We send you all our warm wishes for the festive season and a bright and abundant new year.

The CIR Team

The Golden Section

There is a proportion that has been used throughout history, in art, craft and architecture, a proportion that can be found in virtually every aspect of Nature's manifestations including the human body. Known also as The Golden Section or The Golden Mean, Phi ($\Phi = 1: 1.618033988...$), named after the Greek 5th century BC architect Phidias, is one of the so-called 'perfect' or 'Divine Proportions' and is a proportion that is instantly recognizable as harmonious and pleasing to the eye.

Masterpieces such as Leonardo Da Vinci's 'Vitruvian Man' illustrate the multivalent manifestations of these proportions as evidenced in both nature and art. The Golden relationship is demonstrated as the key to the proportions of the human figure as well as its component parts, in their simplest form and also in relation to one another.

Mystics throughout the ages have sought geometric proof, that we humans are both spiritual and physical. In Leonardo making the Golden Ratio of the figure (Vitruvian man) the centre of the symbol, sacred geometrists see this connection as key to the realisation of our spiritual identity.

The Phi (The Golden Section) Personal Harmoniser

The Phi ' Φ ' Personal Harmoniser, like all our Personal Harmonisers, is a flat spiral form made from copper tubing, filled with CIR imploded water. It is formed in such a way that the ratio between the widths of the large and small spirals equals Φ ; the ratio between the overall length of the Harmoniser and the length of the large spiral equals Φ ; and the ratio between the lengths of the large and small spirals equals Φ .

The Phi Personal Harmoniser is available in two sizes: Large (5cm long and 3cm wide) and Mini (3.5cm long and 1.8cm wide) and comes with a choice of copper, silver, gold or platinum plating. Please see the attached Product Overview Sheet for details and prices.

Phi ' Φ ' is known to represent the proportionally beautiful. We are incorporating this relationship in our Harmoniser in order to make it aesthetically pleasing and harmonious in its very form and energy. The Phi Personal Harmoniser celebrates the magnificence of nature: creativity and primal duality; the relationship between the physical and the spiritual; and the need for balance.

We have produced several (all basic forms) of Personal Harmoniser prototypes that encompass phi and have chosen to manufacture this particular model as it follows the Phi ratio along both axes in a similar way to the Vitruvian Man. We find it very beautiful to wear and feel confident that you will enjoy it too.

Phi, Nature and Harmony

An important part of our work has been to seek out the sacred proportions that exist in Nature and to apply these concepts to our products in our quest to create optimum therapeutic effects. As we all know, the Vortex Energiser follows the 'Harmonic Hyperbolic Space Curve'. This Curve was demonstrated by Walter Schauburger (Viktor's son) to be a universal truth that pervades the cosmos from micro to macro. Johannes Kepler demonstrated it to exist in our solar system where the planets follow this path and Pythagoras saw its ratios to be the basis for harmonics in relation to music. As Place suggests: Pythagoreans believed that numbers as symbols equated to particular qualities as well as quantities. Numbers were seen to impact on reality in particular as a ratio/proportion. Pythagoreans distinguished different levels of complexity of proportion. Phi was seen as the most primal and the most sacred (Robert M. Place, 2000).

Callum Coats also draws our attention to Phi as representative of a fundamental link between energy and form:

"In my study of Phi from an energetic point of view, it seems always associated with transmutation of energy into form, since this proportion is reflected in so many of Natures's creations. In recognition of this peculiarity, I have come to call it the 'Transmutation Number'.

Energetically, because Phi is realised through the ratio of one number to another - its proportion in its simplest form represents a dyad - symmetry out of unequal yet complementary forces.

"Ilya Prigogine once stated that all natural movement arises out of a state of imbalance, of non-equilibrium. Non-equilibrium is a pre-requisite for movement and evolution in all its forms, and a state of equilibrium is therefore impossible in Nature. Yet we find that certain symmetries do occur, nevertheless".

Mystics and scholars have observed these tensions variously in the natural world, and many, such as the ancient Chinese, believe this to be at the very core of creation and life itself expressed through binary opposition in its balanced state: explosion-implosion, light-dark, positive-negative, male-female...

"...generally speaking, the [second aspect of these pairs] should prevail over the first aspect for evolution to proceed productively. ... [pto]

Viktor Schauberger estimated the correct proportion between them to be 1/3rd to 2/3rds, respectively. The ancient Chinese considered balance to be achieved at 2/5th Yin to 3/5ths Yang. However in view of the manifestation of Phi in so many of Nature's creations, the proportion of 1:Φ is probably the more correct... Through the interaction of the two proportions, the unstable dynamic balance in Nature and her energetic processes is achieved. Were it not for this tentative balance no forward progress would be possible... At a more sublime level this also represents what the Buddhists call the 'Golden Middle Way', the path of tranquillity, compassion and contemplation unassailed by the vicissitudes and extremes of life." (all quotes from Living Energies, Callum Coats, 1996).

CIR Events 2005

In July we spoke at the annual conference of the Wiltshire Crop Circle Study Group in Marlborough. The event was held in the grounds of Marlborough College. It was a privilege to address such an international group in the splendid semi-circular lecture hall of the College. Our thanks to Francine Blake for inviting us and to Roma and Kathleen for all their hard work.

In September we spoke at the Psionic Medical Society. It was inspiring to meet and talk to such a varied, open-minded and holistic group of professionals. Our thanks to Deidre and Michael Rust for inviting us.

CIR Quality Control:

We are committed to Excellence in the making of our products. All products are finished to high quality incorporating CIR imploded water. This is the result of many years of research and development. Should you have any queries or feedback, please feel free to contact us.

Be aware that any similar-looking products or imitations do not contain CIR imploded water.

Testimonials

Our customers Michael and Barbara from from the USA write:
"We received our first shipment of the EMF Harmonizers and triple spirals and books. We are very impressed with how attractive they look and with how they feel. Carrying the package in the house, Barbara felt something akin to a jolt of energy pass through her followed by detox symptoms throughout the rest of the evening. Is this characteristic of some? I felt the wonderful energy provided by the devices and at some point had to remove the spirals feeling I had had enough for one day. We placed one of the EMF Harmonizers on our water pipes and, within a few minutes noticed a significant improvement in the smell and taste of our tap water. The water feels lighter as well. Showering with this water feels better also. It is good to know I am not absorbing city chemicals during showers now. Thank you so much for these wonderful additions to our lives. Blessings and peace, Michael & Barbara"

Our customer Joanne from New Zealand writes:
"I purchased a personal harmoniser about a year ago. I did not really believe that it would make any difference, being rather a sceptic, but within a short time noticed a feeling of general well being, a buoyant feeling that things were good. I thought I was feeling perfectly o.k. before that, so it came as quite a surprise. It is hard to describe. It is as though one feels lighter, freer in some way. I stopped using the harmoniser for a few days and then put it on again, and the same thing happened. I did this experiment several times, and while I felt no obvious negative effect when I stopped wearing it, when I started again the improvement was noticeable. My husband, even more of a sceptic, tried it and found the same thing. So he purchased one too. We both now wear them all the time. We can neither of us really

The New CIR Water-Filled Bracelet™

We are all aware of the beneficial effects of Copper bracelets. Ever since antiquity, the direct contact of copper with the skin is believed to have a beneficial effect on human health especially for sufferers of arthritis and rheumatism. Hence the use of copper bracelets continues to be very popular today.

CIR has designed a new combination of this ancient tradition by combining an attractive hand-made copper bracelet, filled with the added benefit of CIR imploded water. In addition, just like our range of Personal Harmonisers, the bracelets are available in very attractive silver, gold or platinum plating. These make simple, classic, multiple-purpose jewellery.

The bracelet is available in two sizes: large (7cm width) and small (6cm width). The large size is unisex, the small size should fit most women and children. Special sizes can be made on request.

The CIR Water-Filled Bracelet™ is the first of our new range of CIR Water-Filled Celtic and Ancient-inspired Jewellery™. We look forward to introducing you to our other exciting designs in the new year.

understand it. We have read all the information now of course, but to be honest we still find it hard to credit, but against that the harmonizers really work.

Best wishes,
Joanne"

Our customer Alma writes:

"Janette who is 67, has now been wearing the harmoniser you so kindly sent for 12 days. She could only walk a few steps and then had to stop because of here heart condition (mild heart failure—extremely anxious and confused at times and very little appetite).

We went to Threave Castle which was 3/4 mile fom the car park. Se walked all the way there—had a rest and all the way back! Then we visited beautiful Threave Gardens and she walked around there for about an hour with one or two rests. We were all amazed!

She said she had really enjoyed herself. Then she ate all of her evening meal as well.

Thank you. Thank you so many times.
Love
Alma"

Our friend Ken from America writes:

"I just received a Phi Personal Harmoniser. Thank you for designing such a beautiful piece of jewellery that I can proudly wear as a man. I find it similar to my Maori fish hook which I already wear.
Love you all at CIR
Ken"
